

A Hundred Verses from Old Japan

英語で百人一首

久方の光のどけき春の日に
しづ心なく花の散るらむ

The spring has come, and once again
The sun shines in the sky;
So gently smile the heavens, that
It almost makes me cry,
When blossoms droop and die.

Each poem is introduced in Japanese & English accompanying with informative note about cultural & historical context.

英語の方が分かりやすいものも! 唄は日英表記です。

